Summary

Web developer and designer for agencies, startups, and large companies. In 2014 I co-founded Sheep Head Apps with very talented partners to build digital products for both business and consumer use.

In Boombit Agency, as the Head of technology services I ensure the best practices were upheld for UX/UI design, web development, and technical execution, also collaborated with developers, project managers, and other subject matter experts to scope projects and lend insight.

In Nicasource as an engineering team lead, I collaborated with an amazing team of engineers and project managers to develop and maintain web applications for both international business and consumer use, as well as publicly speaking about the importance of learning to code and open source in Latin America.

Currently working as a Web developer at AffinityClick Inc.
